BODIES OF ROYAL EGYPTIANS FOUND

Achaologists Find Remains Estimated to Be 5,200 Years Old

CAIRO, Egypt, April 19. (P)—The bodies of two royal ladies, 5,200 years old, have been unearthed in the depths of the Giza plateau, near the pyramids.

On opening one of the coffins the excavators, who are members of the Egyptian university archaeological expedition, found it contained the body of a woman of about 25, richly adorned with jewels.

She was lying on her back with her face turned toward the east. Above the head was a golden fillet, 60 centimeters long. Around the neck was a gold necklace composed of 50 pieces.

The left wrist of the second body, which is believed to be that of one of the royal ladies of the fourth dynasty, bore a bracelet of fine gold threads on which a medium-sized cornelian was set.

Verdict Given

TYLER, Texas, April 19. (P)—A coroner's verdict of murder and suicide was returned Tuesday in the double shooting which caused the death of E. Q. Tate and his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. L. Perdue.

WILL ROGERS says:

SANTA MONICA, Calif., April 19.—Mr. Hoover wants to put in the "stagger" system. That don't sound like a dry. He says we can save $80,000,000 a year by "staggering." We have always thought "staggering" was a shame, but now it's a blessing.

But what he means by the "stagger" is, you "stagger" to work to-day, then "stagger" home and lay off tomorrow. And if "stagger" over and work in your place that day, then you "stagger" back the next day.

The man who is employing you don't know just who is going to "stagger" in to work for him on any given day, but it gives more people days to "stagger," so the plan is well worth "staggering" into. Yours, "staggeringly,"

New Movie Queen Knows Only Five Words Of English

NEW YORK, April 19. (P)—She knows only five words of English but in three weeks Anna Sten will be playing opposite Ronald Colman in a new talkie.

The Russian-German actress is Hollywood's latest "find." She arrived last week from abroad. Tuesday she paced around a hotel room trying to add to her scanty American vocabulary.

The blue eyes of the athletic, bob-haired blonde sparkled and she recited in rapid-fire order, as if afraid she would forget them: "Darling, sweetheart, I love you." She learned those words first, she explained, because she had figured they would be most in demand out in California—in her movie work.

BORAH OPPOSES CANCELLATION OF EUROPEAN DEBTS

Head of Foreign Relations Committee Attacks Smith's 20-Year Plan

WASHINGTON, April 19. (P)—A sharp warning sounded in the senate by Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee that Europe must settle her own problems before coming to the United States for debt relief.

Borah led a chorus of opposition to debt cancellation in the senate as the news spread that Great Britain's budget announced Tuesday does not include provision for payment of the American debt.

For the first time since the campaign of 1928, Borah turned his oratorical fire on former Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, characterizing the Democratic candidate's plan for a 20-year moratorium on debts as "cancellation."

Unhindered, Borah's speech was made before a sparsely occupied gallery, but the senate floor filled as he demanded revision of the Versailles treaty, disarmament and settlement of the reparations problem.

Mosaics Unearthed

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 19. (P)—The first of the buried Mosaics in the Mosque of St. Sophia, which have been hidden under whitewash for centuries because of Islamic taboo against images were uncovered Tuesday.

Authorities Given Search

COUNTER ATTACK ON PAYMENT OF BONUS LAUNCHED

Representatives La Guardia Simmons and Johnson Assail Expansion

REPUBLICANS FAVOR CHANGE, NOT PAYMENT

Alteration of Present Statute Is Stressed By Patman of Texas

WASHINGTON, April 19. (P)—Three veterans of political and world war battles Tuesday launched the counter attack which administration leaders hope will block the two billion dollar bonus payment.

Representatives LaGuardia of New York and Simmons of Nebraska, formerly of the air service, and Representative Johnson of South Dakota, once an infantryman, assailed the currency expansion plan to cash the bonus certificates.

All three Republicans favored changes in the existing law, a point immediately stressed by Representative Patman, Democrat of Texas, who is leading the bonus fight, but none favored the $2,400,000 cash payment.

Brig. Gen. Francis T. Hines, veterans administrator, is the next opposition witness scheduled. Charles G. Dawes, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is expected to show Thursday how this huge credit source has helped the small banker and business man.

ALIENIST UPHOLDS MASSIE DEFENSE PLEA

Prosecution of Alleged Slayer of Hawaiian in Fighting Mood

HONOLULU, April 19. (P)—Alienist testimony that Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie was insane at the moment Joseph Kahahawai was killed put the prosecution in a fighting mood Tuesday as the defense effort to clear four persons of the lynching approached its finale.

Insisting the young naval officer was mentally deranged when he allegedly stood before Kahahawai with drawn pistol and supposedly heard the young native confess taking part in an attack on Mrs. Thalia Massie, Dr. James Orblison, Los Angeles psychiatrist, stuck to his story under a furious attack by Barry S. Ulrich, assistant prosecutor.

Just before Clarence Darlow, defense leader, announced he would close his case Wednesday and probably calling Mrs. Massie, attack victim and wife of the accused officer.

ETEX DIRECTOR DIES, GIRL HURT, IN PLANE CRASH

Harry Black of Galveston Fatally Hurt as Ship Strikes Tree

LUFKIN, April 19. (P)—Harry G. Black, 44, of Galveston, was killed and a 19-year-old Livingston girl was injured critically here Tuesday in an airplane crash at the Lufkin airport.

Black, a lieutenant commander in the naval reserves and a licensed pilot, died 10 minutes after his plane fell into a tree top from an altitude of 300 feet.

The girl, Miss Sudie Belle Fain, 19, daughter of R. C. Fain of Nacogdoches, was injured critically. She lived at Livingston with a sister.

Witnesses at the airport said the accident occurred when Black's plane motor apparently died as he was alighting after a short air ride with the girl.

Black was elected a director of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon. He was vice president of the Black Hardware company of Galveston and president of the Galveston Wire Nail company of Galveston.

He is survived by his widow and two children.

Child Dies of Wound

CHILDRESS, Texas April 19. (P)—J. W. Hatley, 9, died Tuesday of a gunshot wound suffered when his 12 year old brother playing with a gun, pulled the trigger. SOLONS BEGIN TO TRIM BUDGETS AS PAY SLASH LOOMS

Ten Per Cent Off Congressmen's Salaries to Be Sponsored

PART OF HOOVER'S ECONOMY PROGRAM

Cut Would Line Up With President's Plan For Other Departments

WASHINGTON, April 19. (P)—Members of congress began trimming their own budgets Tuesday when it became known the house economy committee had decided to sponsor a slash in their pay as an important item in the omnibus retrenchment bill to be submitted later in the week.

Is Alternative

The decision was made to cut the $10,000 annual salaries of the senators and representatives ten per cent in event the committee's original proposal of 11 per cent cut after accepting the first $1,000, was not accepted by the house.

The plan was agreed upon as a part of the house five-day work week and furlough without pay proposition when it was found the president's proposal could not be adapted to the legislative branch which includes the capitol's establishment. Under it, the wages of the 2,500 employees are to be cut $3.33 per cent or about one-twelfth, to meet the month leave without pay of other government employees.

OFFICERS SEARCH COUNTY FOR PAIR

New Mexico Officials Continue Pursuit, Following Gun Fight

HOBBS, N. M., April 19. (P)—Lea county officers searched the country southwest of here Tuesday night for two of the four men who Monday engaged in a gun battle with officers who sought to question them about a bank robbery at O'Donnell, Texas, last week.

Two of the men, J. B. Baker alias J. C. Owens, and "Race Horse" Baker alias J. Kearns, are under arrest. J. B. Baker is in a hospital here suffering with a wound near the heart and the other man, suffering with a slight wound, is in the Lea county jail at Lovington.

The gun battle occurred a few miles from here after Deputy Sheriffs Jack Seay and Don McCombs and Department of Justice Agent George E. Lilley, El Paso, had attempted to approach the four men to question them about the Texas robbery. During the shooting Lilley received a flesh wound.

HEAVY COSTS IN KIDNAPPING QUERY

Ten Thousand Dollars Transferred From Other State Accounts

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 19. (P)—Ten thousand dollars was transferred from other state police accounts Tuesday to help defray expenses of the official investigation of the Lindbergh kidnapping.

So far the state police inquiry has developed hundreds of "tips," clues and wild "leads," but no one has proved of value, as far as is known.

Tuesday's police bulletins from the Lindbergh home told of nearly a dozen separate investigations that had been made in the hope of finding trace of the missing child, but none turned out to be of any importance. Col. H. B. Norman Schwarzkopf said.

Meantime, the secrecy which Col. Lindbergh himself has said he desires surrounded the activities of himself, his three Virginia intermediaries, and John E. Condon, the 23-year old educator who paid the $50,000 ransom, but failed to obtain the child's return.

MAYOR RECORD TO ROTATE CITY JOBS

Plans to Provide Part-Time Employment for Greater Number

Mayor T. J. Record said Tuesday he expects to rotate employees on street and other work which does not require special training. This plan will be followed to provide part time work for as many as possible. However, his plans in regard to this matter are not entirely determined.

Five men who are now employed on street work have been notified they will be released after this week. These will be replaced with five other men.

It's Good For 500 Years Library Box Sealed, Filled With Nitrogen, Ready to Set in Cornerstone and Preserve Its Contents For Posterity

Should Culbertson public library endure 500 years, the contents of the copper box to be placed Wednesday in its cornerstone should be found preserved in all pristine freshness.

So says Frank Grimes of the Paris high school science department, who at the request of J. J. Culbertson, donor of the library, Tuesday removed by means of a vacuum pump the oxygen from the sealed box and replaced this element with nitrogen gas, which will preserve the contents for an indefinite period—at least as long as the copper endures.

Two weeks ago, Mr. Culbertson, through The Paris News, requested citizens to donate any documents, photographs or other souvenirs which might fittingly be placed in the library cornerstone for the edification of those who in years to come, will have the privilege of opening the box. This of course, will be only in the event of demolition, extensive remodeling or reconstruction of the library building, which naturally is not expected for many years to come.

SENATE TO HAVE CHANCE TO VOTE ON BEER QUESTION

Measure Reported Adversely, But Will Go To Floor of Senate

WASHINGTON, April 19. (P)—A senate opportunity vote on beer this session virtually was assured Tuesday despite disapproval of the Bingham bill to legalize four per cent brew by the manufacturers committee.

In reporting the measure adversely by a 7 to 4 ballot, committee members agreed to let it go to the senate floor.

Meanwhile, an official of the American Federation of Labor warned of a "revolution" unless the employing power of the beer industry is revived, but before another senate subcommittee Bishop James Cannon, Jr., said: "We are never going to surrender."

"Is it that you want a revolution in this country?" asked Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, in urging upon a senate judiciary subcommittee legalization of 2.75 per cent beer.

"The remarkable thing to me is that labor has been so calm, so conservative during this depression. But let that condition continue and I'll not venture to say what labor will do."

TEACHERS TO GET VOUCHERS CASHED

County Auditor Receives Warrant Monday for State Aid

Following the receipt Monday of a state warrant for $11,565, County Auditor John S. Baker is paying the fifth month's vouchers for Lamar teachers.

The warrant received Monday represents payment of state aid to Lamar county schools. The amount received includes all regular state aid recommended for payment of teachers' salaries and one-half the amount recommended for schools teaching industrial work. The remaining half of state aid for industrial work will be paid later this year.

There are fifty-two schools in the county to receive state aid this year. All aid recommended by S. E. Clark, state aid inspector, who was here early in the year, was approved.

Since approval of state aid funds to supplement teacher's salaries, practically all schools will continue the full length contract, according to Mrs. Mary Jones Lindsay, county superintendent.

BRITISH CHANCELLOR INTRODUCES BUDGET

Tax Payers Receive No Relief From Heavy Burdens

LONDON, April 19. (P)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain introduced another hard times budget in parliament Tuesday, balancing the British national revenue and expenditure during the coming year at 776,000,000 pounds (currently $2,887,000,000) and providing a small estimated surplus of 796,000 pounds ($3,000,000).

No relief was afforded taxpayers from the heavy burdens levied during the national crisis last autumn. The chancellor resisted all temptations to relax efforts which, he declared, had provided such a wonderful revival of public confidence.

No. 4—The County Clerk

The office of county clerk essentially is an office for the safe-keeping of county archives.

In this office are kept a record of all the deeds involved in the transfer of land since the original headright surveys were designated. The county clerk is the custodian of the records of the minutes of the commissioners' court. In his office also are recorded all the proceedings in probate matters ordered by the county judge.

As clerk of the county court he must keep all the papers in both criminal and civil cases. In his office are filed the complaints in misdemeanor and the petitions in civil cases.

The office of the county clerk is a self-supporting office receiving its revenue from charges made for recording instruments and issuing licenses and serving processes.

The only fees paid the clerk by the county are: $100 per year for preserving the records of office and maintaining an index of these records; fees in lunacy cases; fees for recording death and birth certificates and soldiers' discharges.

Fees paid the clerk by the county for his services as ex-officio clerk of the commissioners' court were discontinued in 1931. Formerly this ex-officio salary was $300 per year. This salary was authorized by a law passed by the state legislature which provided the clerk should receive not less than $10 nor more than $25 per annum for each 1,000 inhabitants of the county—provided, that the total for one year did not exceed $500 nor fall short of $50.

The duties of the county clerk as ex-officio clerk of the commissioners' court largely consist of keeping the records of the minutes and issuing county warrants against the current funds of the county as allowed by the commissioners' court. Other duties include the issuing of jury scrip, services in habeas corpus proceedings, making out bar dockets, filing and docketing all papers for the commissioners' court and services in connection with all elections.

The greatest fees earned by the county clerk in 1931 were for recording chattel mortgages and deeds, which fees are paid by the people filing the designated instruments.

Total fees earned by the county clerk in 1931 for recording chattel mortgages was $1,238.50. These

Famed Flyer and Plane He Pilots

Anticipating one of the largest audiences ever to assemble in the history of Paris, officials have arranged for a loud speaker system to be installed at the Legion airport when Col. Arthur C. Goebel, trans-Pacific flight winner, stages his aerial maneuvers with a Diesel powered plane here Wednesday. During the performance of the flyer his maneuvers will be explained to the spectators by a local announcer. Large amplifiers on the field will carry the voices of the flyer and the committee to the audience. Installers of the equipment said James M. Caviness, Leon Gilmore, Tom Hinkle and Clinton Thompson were named to greet the flyer.

Col. Goebel is expected to arrive over the flying field at exactly 2 o'clock in the afternoon. After being welcomed by the chairman and other members of the committee, the flyer will stage an aeronautical display of difficult loops, twists, dives and turns. Col. Goebel is shown above with his stunt plane.

As chief test pilot for the Guiberson Diesel Engine Company, Col. Goebel is on a tour of Texas for the purpose of acquainting the public with the performance of the Texas-made oil-burning engine. Decision to make this tour was made by S. A. Guiberson, Jr., president of the company, after the motor had successfully passed all United States government strenuous tests and the company's rigid tests for economy of operation and performance.

FARM NEWS OF THE WEEK

CHICOTA JOINING IN ONE VARIETY COTTON PROJECTS

More Than 1200 Acres
Will Be Planted to Single Kind

Cooperating with the recently-organized Red River Valley Farm Improvement association and acting upon its suggestion, 1,250 acres near Chicota will be planted in a single variety of cotton this year. All arrangements have been completed and seed have been secured for planting the crop.

Those joining in the project have agreed to have all the cotton ginned on one gin, which will gin no other variety.

The project is part of a movement to improve the quality of cotton and cotton planting seed in this section. Growers are of the opinion large lots of cotton of uniformity high quality will command a premium on the market. An added advantage comes from keeping all seed pure through ginning only one variety on the gin. Ginner claim they can give a better sample when only one variety is ginned.

cago Follies is presented at the Grand theatre Friday, matinee and night, as the special feature stage attraction.

This show brings two famous blackface comedians, Ches Davis has been the star of his own attractions for many years and Gene "Honey Gal" Cobb was featured with Nell O'Brien's Minstrels. Either of these famous funsters is an assurance of an evening cram full of laughs. Both of them in one show is a positive guarantee of more hilarity than has ever been jammed into one offering.

The Chicago Follies is also cram full of diversified talent. Ivana Baker presents the same rhythm dances that attracted critical attention to her in the Vanities and Marx Brothers Cocomuts in New York.

Dolly Taylor, other "It" girl is a delineator of jazz that is different. Buddy Ryan offers melody and dances.

The Chicago Follies Stage Band combines harmony with red hot syncopation and otherwise furnishes the musical complement of this attraction.

The Eight Dancing Dixie Darlings are not only a pleasing eye but show audiences new dances as they should be danced.

The scenic and costume investiture of the Chicago Follies is elaborate and provides a perfect setting for an unusual attraction.

The record of the Chicago Follies is its own best recommendation. Originally imported into Dixie for an engagement of six weeks, return bookings and extended routes have been its reward until they have now shown for more than sixty consecutive weeks.

The Chicago Follies have broken more attendance records in Southern theaters than any other show in recent years.

On the screen is "Cheaters At Play" with Thomas Meeghan, Charlotte Greenwood, William Bakewell and Linda Watkins.

White blackbirds, which are albinos, are occasionally found. There are also found white robins, crows, hawks and wild ducks.

JERSEY CLUB HAS LOWERED PRICES

Registration Fees For Purebred Jersey Cattle Has Been Materially Decreased

The registration fee for purebred Jersey cattle past two years of age in the American Jersey Cattle club has been reduced from $10 per head to $5, according to information received by A. L. Edmiston, county agent.

The reduction was made by the national organization because of its appreciation of the general lowering of all commodity prices and in order that many purebred Jerseys may now be registered at a saving to their owners.

Many breeders are taking advantage of this reduction, according to Lewis W. Morley, executive secretary of the national association.

At the Lamar

H. B. Warner, Sally Blane, Natalie Moorhead, Donald Dillaway and Edward Breese, five popular favorites of the talking picture screen, head the large cast of stars in "Cross Examination," the new Weiss Brothers Artclass picture, which will be the feature attraction at the Lamar theater for two days, beginning tomorrow.

"Cross Examination," described by its producers as "a master love mystery," is Arthur Hoerl's own adaptation of his well-known novel "Blood and Diamonds," which was serialized recently by the Hearst newspapers throughout the country.

The story is unfolded through the unusual medium of a murder trial, with David Wells on trial for killing his father. As each witness tells his story, the screen pictures his testimony.

In addition to these five stars, each with a long list of well-remembered successes to his credit, there are several others of unusual talent.

Outstanding, perhaps, among these is Sarah Padden, who seems destined to stardom, since the recent announcement that she will be featured in the title role of Frank Borzage's next special production, "The Gold Star Mother." The balance of the cast includes William V. Mong, Wilfred Lucas, Nita Cavalier, Miles Welch, Margaret Fealy, Alexander Pollard, B. Wayne Lamont, Frank Clark, John Webb Dillion and Lee Phelps.

The mocking bird has been known to change its tune 87 times in seven minutes.

Creep Feeding Of Calves On Range Brings Profits To Texas Beef Producers

"Cattle ticks cost 111 pounds of beef per cow and calf during a 160-day period in a cooperative feeding experiment to test creep feeding of spring beef calves on the ranch of the Callaghan Land and Pastoral Company in Webb county, it was brought out recently when ranchers gathered for a field meeting here." A. L. Smith, livestock specialist, A. and M. college, said at a meeting here last week.

"This startling fact was entirely apart from the object of the experiment, the preliminary results of which showed that calves creep fed for 160 days in a 2000-acre pasture to supplement their mothers' milk gained twice as much as those getting only pasture and mothers' milk in a special 1500-acre pasture and more than three times as much as a third lot turned into the main herd with their mothers," he said.

This is the first experimental evidence of the value of creep feeding which has spread rapidly in Texas as a result of two years of demonstrations begun on small ranches and livestock farms by county agents, and bears out enthusiasts for the practice who brand it "the greatest improvement in cattle feeding in a generation." The experiment was conducted jointly by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, with the aid of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

Calves dipped twice for ticks during the period weighed 65 pounds more per head than those dipped only at the start, and cows dipped twice outweighed those dipped once by 48 pounds per head. Cows dipped once and put on clean pasture gained 28 pounds while those dipped and put on infested range lost 21 pounds per head during the period, Mr. Smith said.

The creep fed calves gained 210 pounds each, or 1.31 pounds per day at a feed cost of 2 1-2 cents per pound; the second lot in a special pasture without supplement during the latter part of the feeding period. The calves consumed 74,382 pounds of feed in the 160 days, costing an average of $5.27 per calf. A valuation of 5 1-2 cents per pound was placed on the creep fed calves at the close of the test by a competent livestock committee, and 5 cents per pound on the calves in the other groups.

J. B. Finley, manager of the ranch, valued the cows whose calves were creep fed at $5 more per head than the cows in the other groups at the end of the period, due to better fleshing condition.

The number of pedestrians killed in automobile accidents in 1931 in the United States was around 14,500, and the number injured non-fatally was more than 297,000.

The doctor said "Tuberculosis." Little kiddies cried when daddy went away to the hospital—all income cut off—happy little home broken up—mother barely making ends meet—four little stomachs beginning to pinch for want of sufficient food—winter coming—no warm clothing. Despair!

Daddy's getting well—though slowly. Tuberculosis curable in 86% of cases caught early—he has a real chance now. But letters from home tug at him—duty and love call him back to battle for them—not really able to work—leaving the hospital now would set him back—grave danger of infecting his little ones—they catch tuberculosis so easily.

What shall they do? Think of your family in the same situation.

McADOO'S SUGGESTION.

McAdoo's suggestion fixing a price of twenty-two and a half cents per pound for cotton and one dollar and twenty-five cents per bushel for wheat is the most sane and sound suggestion that has been advanced to relieve this country from the present depression and to prevent future depressions. These farm commodities named are the leading agricultural and most necessary products of the farm. Cotton is the most useful product for clothing and wheat the most useful product for bread. It is more necessary to have a stable price and a living price for farm products to keep enough money in circulation per capita to purchase all the necessities of life for every man, woman and child in the United States of America.

When farm commodities are high money is plentiful and therefore cheap. When money is plentiful everybody is a buyer of the things they can not produce. When money is contracted and scarce money is high like it is at present and hard to get. Hence, everything that money buys is cheap and the purchasing power of a dollar is strong.

The present depression is the best time in the world for everybody who is drawing a salary. War time salaries are being paid to everybody that was drawing a salary during the war and many more salaries are being drawn by office holders that have been created since the war. These people's purchasing power is at least 50 per cent better now than it was in 1929 before the collapse of the New York stock exchange.

Twenty-two and a half cents per pound for cotton and a dollar and twenty-five cents per bushel for wheat as suggested is a better basis to place currency in circulation than is the present gold standard. That is the basis of the currency. The issuing of currency based on gold to reconstruct and finance the banker, insurance companies and railroads is like beginning at the top to construct a building. But twenty-two and a half cents for cotton and a dollar and twenty-five cents per bushel for wheat the two leaders of farm commodities will automatically regulate the price of every other farm commodity. This then is beginning at the bottom to build up and will rapidly build up the financial structure because about 50 per cent of the population of the United States are farmers and their dependents. They would be able by their purchasing power to buy all the clothes to wear and all the bed clothes necessary. This would create a demand for dry goods. Hence many of the eight million of the industrial workers would be put back on the job operating the dry goods manufacturers. Then the farmers would buy all the farm implements that they now need such as wagons, cultivators, with steel sweeps, in fact every other farm implement that is manufactured. Thus, several thousand more unemployed would be employed and their purchasing power would be restored. They would immediately become purchasers of everything on the farm and in the factory that is necessary.

At the present tax rate and interest rate and prices for implements and all overhead expenses it will cost twenty cents per pound on an average of three acres to the bale or one-third of a bale per acre. The way to get the cost is as follows:

After the government's report is sent out announcing the number of acres planted to cotton the first announcement as to the number of bales produced on said number of acres the cost of production shall be determined based on twenty cents per pound cost on an average of three acres to the bale. From time to time as the government estimate is announced the cost price shall be arranged up or down as the case may be. That is if the government report shows that it takes more than three acres to produce a bale on an average the cost price shall be marked down accordingly.

There must be a central sales agency to mark the cost price up or down as the case may be. This agency should sell cotton by the actual samples and not buy cotton as is the case with the farm board. A central point in each cotton state should be established to assemble the actual cotton samples for the big cotton buyers to buy from.

The bales should be placed at the nearest compress to each producer and there sampled by a competent sampler and the sampler detach the corresponding number from the compress tag, wrap it in the sample taken from the same bale and send sample and number from each bale to the central sales agency. The samples should be arranged at the central point by numbers. All number one samples on number one counter, number two on number two counter, and so on down to the lowest number or grade and staple.

When this cotton is sold at the central point the numbers turned back to the compress from whence it was sent by the man that buys the cotton and is paid for at the local banks where the compress is located and the cotton bales are shipped to their destination from each local compress.

Under McAdoo's suggestion of twenty-two and a half cents per pound and the cost determined as outlined above would give the producer twelve dollars and a half profit on each bale. This profit would be clear since all overhead is figured in the cost. Then we will see prosperity in this country and not till then. The farmers and laborers as well as all other men in other walks of life could pay their taxes to the extent that city, county, state and national government would not have to vote bonds in order to carry on their government. They could carry on, on a cash basis.

But some one says this would cause too much cotton to be raised in this country and Europe, as a remedy to prevent an over-production of cotton in this country the plan is on February 29 of each year the number of bales of cotton on hand unsold or contracted for shall govern the acreage to be planted that respective year. That is if half is unsold at that date the acreage would be cut one-half. If one third is unsold or contracted for the acreage would be cut one-third. Let the number of bales be what they may the acreage would be cut accordingly.

The cotton acreage regulated by this plan would adjust the supply to the demand whether or not that Europe bought a bale of cotton from America. This plan would adjust the production to the demand of America if it ever comes to that. There will be several more million bales used in America when the purchasing power of the people is restored as outlined in this letter.

The farmers themselves should control the price and control the acreage and establish the marketing plan as outlined above, and not the government.

Why don't the farmers make a business of farming on the same basis that other business is operated? On a cost and profit proposition and become independent of the money lenders of this country and be the boss of his own business in place of a servant of the other fellow.

The wheat producers can arrange their cost price of production wheat and their profit and acreage control on a similar plan. Wake up and get busy.

NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT TOASTED ON TOP AND BOTTOM

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit Bring Many Improvements

One of the new foods that is attracting attention is the improved Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit. The new Kellogg Biscuit is cooked by a special "pressure process" that bakes in delightful flavor and retains the full food value of the whole wheat. At the same time, it makes the biscuit easier to digest.

Every biscuit is toasted a rich, golden brown on both top and bottom—not just one side. They are much crisper. And they come in a more economical, convenient size. Two biscuits just fit the cereal bowl and there are 15 to the package.

"Because of 'pressure-cooking,'" Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits are unusually rich in food value. In fact, every package is certified by the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia—which fact should be of special interest to mothers.

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits and hot or cold milk or cream are a delicious well-balanced food for both children and grown-ups—rich in minerals and vitamins. A tasty treat for breakfast, lunch, children's suppers—any meal.

Grocers are displaying this new shredded biscuit. You can identify it by the name, Kellogg's, and the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SLEEVE INGENUITY

PATTERN 2328

Step-by-Step Instruction Diagram Given With This Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

There seems to be no end to the delightful treatments given sleeves this season. In this case a slash reveals the arm and the sleeve is held in place with the ends. Or, if you wish, they may be chopped off at the shoulders as shown in the small back view. The diagonal seaming, cleverly scalloped, is new and mighty smart. This model is simple to make and even the amateur is assured of smart results.

Pattern 2328 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 44. Size 16 requires 3 1/4 yards of 36 inch fabric, 3-4 yard lace.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

COUNTY CLERK

cent of the amount paid for the licenses. The remainder of the amount paid for the license is forwarded to the state department at Austin.

The clerk receives $1 for qualifying each public notary and approving notarial bond paid by the notary public every two years when they must be qualified and their bonds approved. Total fees in 1931 was $230.

For his services in waiting on the county court in misdemeanor cases the county clerk receives fees only when the defendants pay fines. His total fees in misdemeanor cases are paid out of the costs assessed the defendant. If the defendant is acquitted, or serves his fine in jail or the case is dismissed, the county clerk receives no fees.

Fees in misdemeanor cases in 1931 totaled $154.65 or an average of $2 per case. Of the 209 cases filed during 1931 the county clerk collected fees in approximately 80 cases.

These misdemeanor fees are computed in the following manner: issue of warrant, 75 cents; entering appearance, 15 cents; docketing cause, 25 cents; swearing and impaneling jury, 50 cents; swearing witness, 10 cents; issuing each subpoena, 25 cents; for each additional name inserted, 15 cents; issuing each attachment, 50 cents; filing each paper, 10 cents; entering judgment, 50 cents; entering continuance, 25 cents; entering motion or rule, 10 cents; entering recognition, 50 cents; entering indictment or information, 10 cents; each transcript on appeal, for each 100 words, 10 cents; taxing the bill of costs and copy, 25 cents.

Fees in lunacy cases are computed in the same manner as those fees in misdemeanor cases. Lunacy fees, however, are paid by the county out of the general county fund on order by the county judge. Fees in lunacy cases during 1931 totaled $112.50.

The county clerk's fees for services in issuing process and attending county court in civil cases are paid out of the costs of the suit. These fees in 1931 totaled $332.95 earned but only $108.24 collected. If these fees are not collected from the parties ordered by the judge or jury to pay the costs while the clerk is in office or during the year after his retirement from office the clerk then loses these fees.

These fees in civil cases are: docketing, filing and appearance, 25 cents; issuing citation and copy, 50 cents; if the defendant is an out-of-county resident the clerk receives 50 cents for issuing certified copy of petition—if the copy of the petition is made by the clerk he receives 10 cents for each 100 words; all papers filed in the case, 5 cents for each paper; for entering judgment, 50 cents.

Probate fees earned by the clerk are paid out of the estates involved in the proceedings. Fees in probate cases in 1931 totaled $237.64 earned and $136.14 collected.

All applications to probate wills, applications for administration of estates, applications for guardianship, all orders by the county judge granting these applications, all bonds and oaths accompanying these orders, inventories and appraisements of estates, orders of sale, reports of sales, annual reports on estates, and all other proceedings prescribed by law for the handling of probate matters must be recorded by the county clerk in a record of probate minutes.

The county clerk receives 10 cents for each 100 words for recording all the papers in probate cases for a permanent record. In addition to this fee the clerk receives 5 cents for filing the case, 10 cents for docketing and 25 cents for taxing the bill of costs.

Miscellaneous fees earned by the clerk totaled $43.20 in 1931 for recording cancellations of mortgages at 25 cents for each cancellation.

The county clerk received $160 annual fee paid out of the general county fund in 1931 for preserving all records of office and maintaining indexes to these records and for the performance of similar duties. This fee is provided by statute and subject to the allowance of the county judge in an amount not to exceed $100 per annum.

Total fees collected by the clerk in 1931 totaled $1,082.35 or $276.20 less than total fees earned because of failure to collect all the fees earned in civil and probate cases. Deductible expenditures listed by the clerk totaled $3,884 for salaries of three deputies and $25 for premiums paid on surety bonds.

Original maximum annual fees for the county clerk in counties containing as many as 37,500 inhabitants were fixed at $2,750 in Article 3533. Later laws passed permit the county clerk to retain fees in excess of this amount until the sum of $1,250 is reached and of the remaining fees the clerk can retain one-fourth of the amount until the total fees of office amount to $5,500. Fees of office collected in excess of the maximum amount are paid into the county treasury.

Excess fees are figured only after the salaries of deputies and assistants are listed as deductible expenditures. However these salaries of deputies and assistants of county officers are limited by statute and subject to the approval of the commissioners' court.

Total fees of office retained by the county clerk in 1931 was $2,643.26.

Reviewers Write Commendation of Novels by Joseph

Reviews of the first two novels by Donald Joseph, Texas writer, who is to lecture here Friday afternoon under auspices of the Junior Welfare League, indicate unusual insight and perception combined with a clarity and ease of writing which makes for interesting reading.

Of his first book, "October's Child," the New York Herald-Tribune says: "Without a single reference to the cliches of psychoanalysis, Mr. Joseph shows us a mother-fixation in the process of formation and disintegration while the subject remains completely unconscious of what is going on. It is good to come upon so fine an example of artistry making use of a scientific technique without allowing the laboratory methods to intrude."

The Boston Transcript's comment is: "Well written. Never for an instant do we lose our clear-cut picture of the people and the places discussed. It is the sort of book one finishes, despite a welter of life's affairs."

Of Mr. Joseph's second novel, "Long Bondage," the New York Evening Post says: "Lucy's 'Long Bondage' is conditioned by the three men who govern her life: father, husband and son. As a product of the post-war South, Lucy is a romantic. She adores her father; she marries the man she adores (in spite of disturbing thoughts concerning another man whom she meets on the eve of her marriage); and she adores her eldest son. After many years of inevitable disillusion, she finds herself free of the men who have taken so much from her and begins life anew with the man she feels she should have married."

The Outlook says: "The novel has a simple charm of style which dignifies its melodrama and it is sincere."

MOVING TIME

WELL, it's getting toward moving time again, and how busy a good many folk will be! They'll have to bring the piano box from the back yard where it has been either a playhouse for the children or a coop for the chickens. They'll have to wrap the old comforts around the chiffonier, and newspapers around the chair-legs. The old house will have to be cleaned up, and so will the new one. Something will be lost—something always is—and much will be thrown away.

There is a great deal of waste about moving. You remember Ben Franklin, in his wise way, said: Three moves are as bad as a fire. Yet when spring comes we see all the disadvantages of the old place; the landlord isn't willing to do very much in the way of paper and painting and a new place looks a lot better.

What is even better than a new house of someone else to live in, is a home of your own. Then when you want something done you do it yourself and have the satisfaction of knowing it has added a little to your own property. You feel established and your neighbors begin to think you amount to something. This year you buy new screens, and next year put a little hedge around the lawn. The whole thing's yours. You have a just pride in it.

It is a fine plan, if you must move, to move just once more—into a home of your own.

THE PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW

BELIEVING that the people want to know and should know the legal methods used in levying, assessing, collecting and expending taxes, and other government activities, The News is publishing a series of articles covering such matters. The figures in these articles are taken from the public records, and where considered necessary extracts will be given from the statutes governing the conduct of the various offices.

These publications are not made with a view to favoring or attacking any political candidacy, nor to create any impression that anything is being done that should call for investigation; but they are made solely for the purpose of informing the people about their own business.

The records from which The News will gather its material are open for public inspection and any citizen may at any reasonable time inspect them for himself. Few people, however, have the time to do this and it is for this reason that The News is doing it for them, gathering and condensing the information, yet retaining its vital items, so that the busy men or women may be able to inform themselves of what is being done in their government.

People as a rule take too little interest in government. They should take more, and they should have facts on which to do their thinking. Too often the "I am told" takes the place of "I know" in statements made by another, and it is to remove any basis for these unjust and often unreasonable statements and charges that The News has begun and will carry on this campaign of information.

ALL OF US

By Marshall Maslin

HE ASKED FOR A DIME I LOOKED AT HIM DID I GIVE IT?

I SAW him coming my way. I knew he was about to ask me for money. That shabby young fellow who needed a shave and a haircut and a job and everything else. Of course he asked me . . . I could have hurried past. I could have shut my ears . . . But you can't do that. . . . Mister, could you let a fellow have a dime? Or maybe a quarter—to get something to eat. He'd just gotten into town. He'd been looking for work. He hadn't eaten. He was hungry. Could you help a fellow out? Could you? Honest, mister, he needed it.

I'd put my hand into my pocket. He kept on talking. I listened. I didn't say anything. I couldn't. All I did was listen to that frayed fellow who wanted something from me. But as he talked I looked at him over from his run-down heels to the uncut hair at the back of his neck. I suppose, inside of me, I was wondering if he was a professional panhandler. Was he an addict? Was he a drunk? Was he hungry? Was he lying to me for a dime or a quarter? Was I a sucker?

And what right had I, or any man, to look at another human being in that way? To measure, to appraise, to judge, to wonder about the "worthiness" of another soul? Should I have said, "Go to such and such address and you'll get a bed and a meal? Should I have thought, He'll put my money with other money and waste it on drink? He'll collect and collect until he has enough for dope and then he'll sneak off into some vacant lot behind a fence and give himself a shot?

Should I harden myself and say a gruff NO and go my way?

It happened so swiftly, in a flash of seconds, as I listened and while I was thrusting my hand into my pocket.

I listened. I measured him and I rebuked my own questioning. I was fiercely ashamed of my own littleness—and just a little angry at him because he had done this to me.

And I drew out my hand and gave him a quarter.

Don't tell me, Social Worker, that I shouldn't have done it. That we shouldn't give even so little money to men who accost me us the street.

You do not quite understand. You see, I didn't give it to him, to that shrunken mortal who went away with my 25 cents in his pocket. I gave it to myself—to no one else.

Backward Glances

By A. W. Neville

THE years immediately following the war between the states were made onerous for the Confederates returned from the battlefields. Not only did they have to face the rebuilding of their shattered fortunes, but they were hampered in the exercise of citizenship and watched over at every turn by soldiers who wore the hated blue.

Before they could vote they were required to sign an affidavit a copy of which I have before me. This particular affidavit was signed by M. M. Bailey who lived east of Paris. It reads:

"United States of America, State of Texas. Registrar's office, Lamar county, OATH. I, M. M. Bailey, do solemnly swear or affirm in the presence of Al. mighty God, that I am a citizen of the State of Texas, that I have resided in said state for 15 years next preceding this day, and now reside in the county of Lamar in said state; that I am twenty-one years old; that I have not been disfranchised for participation in any rebellion or civil war against the United States nor for felony committed against laws of any of the United States; that I have never been a member of any state legislature, nor held any executive or judicial office in any state and afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States and given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I have never taken an oath as a member of congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any state legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any state, to support the constitution of the United States and afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof; that I will faithfully support the constitution and obey the laws of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, encourage others so to do. So help me God."

This was signed by Mr. Bailey and below appeared this certificate: "I do hereby certify that on this 9th day of July, 1867, appeared before me M. M. Bailey, who subscribed the foregoing oath. G. W. DeWitt, Registrar."

The citizen was required to preserve this oath and certificate and present it when offering to vote. This copy shows that Mr. Bailey's number was 232 on the roll, and it is endorsed to show that he voted in an election October 8, 1871, in the 7th precinct.

The old boys didn't like to have to do this but it was the only way they could vote and get back the government from the carpetbaggers. I recall when the Paris city Democratic committee in 1895, before there was a Terrell election law, provided for a registration in order to prevent repeating and non-resident voting, some of the ex-Confederates refused to register. Colonel J. G. Dudley was the most obdurate, and said he had to register in Missouri right after the war and he'd be—d if he would do it, but at the solicitation of some of the candi, dates he finally consented.

The Story of an Unemployed Girl

By ETHELDA-BEDFORD
Author of "BROADWAY BRIDE"

CHAPTER 35

"We'll let her worry now."

"Laura, baby, you've got to have a doctor. You're sick," Eve tried to humor her.

"No. . . ."

"She'll need more than a doctor if you don't hurry," said Mrs. Morris, an old flannel bath robe pulled grotesquely about her.

"I won't have a doctor," moaned Laura, writhing from pain. Her face pasty and drawn. Her eyes stretched with terror. "I won't!"

Mrs. Morris pulled Lillian over to the side. "She'll die if you don't get a doctor!"

"I'd rather die than have one!" screamed the tortured Laura.

Now she was doubled up with pain. The little bed squeaked with her incessant motion.

"I haven't any money—no money to pay for a doctor," Laura said through her clenched teeth. "No money."

"We'll get some money, somehow," Eve said looking at Mrs. Morris.

"We'll pay him Laura!"

"I'd rather die than have bills to pay—I have no money."

"We'll get some money, Laura," Lillian pleaded.

"No money. . . . no job. . . . how can I pay. . . . how can any of us pay!" Laura gasped the words.

Mrs. Morris pushed past Lillian and Eve, through the doorway.

It seemed but a few moments before she returned and with her came a sleepy-eyed little man, carrying a doctor's kit in one hand while he pulled his coat together in the front, attempting to hide his pajamas.

"There she is," said Mrs. Morris, with an air of authority.

The man sat on the side of the bed; his quick, muscular hands moved beneath Laura's hands.

"There? That's where it hurts?"

"There? Where the way Laura jerked it was."

He looked up at Mrs. Morris and nodded. Lillian and Eve knew that Mrs. Morris had diagnosed the case correctly. Appendicitis!

"She won't have to go to the hospital, will she, doctor?" breathed Eve.

The sleep-worn eyes of the doctor were kind and stern. He said: "Yes, Right away!"

"You won't let him send me to a hospital, Eve? Don't—don't!"

"Laura, honey, The doctor says you must go."

Lillian put a freshly cooled towel on Laura's head. For a second or so it seemed the terrific pain stopped. She stopped writhing and struggling. Her voice became natural in its tone, as she said: "A girl without a job can't afford to get sick. I can't even afford that I've known for a long time. . . . that pain was scaring me. But I needed my money for car fare. . . ."

The doctor stepped out of the room and Mrs. Morris followed.

Above the noise of early taxi cabs and milk carts they could hear the incessant dinging of the ambulance bell. It sounded in the little upstairs room so plainly.

And when the white-coated interners hurried up the stairs and pushed into the room, with the stretcher between them it was like some horror scene in a movie. . . . one from which you could look away just by turning your head. . . . and when you turned your eyes back again there would be smiles and soft music, romance where the horror scene had been.

Laura screamed and spent much strength trying to resist.

Long after they had carried her down the stairs Lillian and Eve could hear her crying she wouldn't go. . . . she'd rather die.

Lillian kept thinking over Laura's story of her long night away from them—that last night in Laura's life—and she could not find an answer to the question it inspired. . . . which bobbed back and forth in her mind:

"When a girl hasn't car fare and she's too sick and tired to walk—what then?"

Lillian went with Eve to Laura's mother and stepfather that afternoon and broke the news.

"Yes," said her stepfather, "we'll take care of the funeral and everything."

Eve almost thanked him, he accepted the responsibility so amicably. Laura's mother, a tired, sad-eyed little woman, covered her face and scarcely said a word.

It was a week later, when they saw her, that she let out why her husband accepted the task as he had.

"Laura carried insurance," she said, "and when she couldn't keep up payments any longer he had her make it out to him, and he had it paid up."

"Will the money help you, too?" Eve asked.

The sad eyes became a little sadder as the little woman answered: "We paid the rent for the first time in three months. My husband has been out of work—and it taking so much to clothe and feed four little children and keep them in school."

Lillian and Eve came away from the small apartment in the Bronx feeling that Laura would have been pleased to know she had contributed to the little family, even by her death.

That afternoon when they reached their room Mrs. Morris had packed up Lillian's and Eve's clothes and placed their suit cases in a smaller, darker room at the far end of the hall.

There was a room-for-rent sign on the outside door as they came in. "Girls, I'm sorry, but I'll have to have that room," Mrs. Morris told them. "You owe over two weeks' rent as it is, and I've lost rent on it."

Eve, who had been looking out for herself since she was sixteen understood what the road signs of poverty on the highway of jobless friendless girls were. She knew that they had to pay or leave Mrs. Morris' room—soon.

"I think we'd better leave," she told Lillian when they had shut the door of the dark, stuffy room. "We could go to the girls' home a few streets over. I noticed the sign."

"They didn't say it in so many words, but the real reason they wanted to leave Mrs. Morris' house was the memory of Laura."

"She said we could stay here for a few days until we could get some money for her," Lillian said. "We could go to the girls' home and both of us get it in it."

Eve walked to the one small window and drew up the shade. It opened on a narrow iron fire escape which led into an alley two floors beneath.

"She knew we'd want to leave when she told us the price—four fifty each for this," said Eve.

"And we only paid two and a half each for the other room," said Lillian.

"Yes, you see, she thought we

Diet and Health

By Logan Clendening, M. D., Author of "The Human Body"

The young man was about to get on his pony when he remembered he might be hungry on the long journey. This was long ago, long before the young man was depressed or the war, before that longest of all depressions, the Middle Ages, before the glory that was Greece, or the grandeur that was Rome—when mankind was young, in the great fertile, pastoral plains of the Aryan cradle land.

So the young man filled a goatskin with some milk. The milk was a little sour because the young man thought it more refreshing that way. He did not fill the goatskin full, because it would be too heavy, and slinging it on his shoulder he leaped upon his shaggy little pony and galloped away. The pony had a choppy little stride and the goatskin on the young man's shoulder joggled and the milk splashed about inside, and one of the great and glorious accidents that have befallen mankind was preparing to occur.

For when the young man dismounted and opened his goatskin and looked at the contents; lo and behold, a strange new substance had appeared. Golden masses were sticking to the sides of the goatskin. The young man gingerly put one into his mouth—that is another way much progress in civilization has been made, and many useful citizens killed off. It was delicious. The young man ate some more. Butter was born.

Whether that is the way it happened or not, we do not know. Drs. Samuel Crumrine and James Tobey tell the story and I copy it from them. But to this day many peoples make butter by hanging up goatskins filled with sour milk and beating the goatskins with sticks.

What a boon that anonymous benefactor of mankind conferred on us—that young man on the pony with the choppy trot—when he discovered butter. Three thousand calories of energy to the pound, rich in vitamin A—the growth vitamin—the best appetizer on earth—and we consider it as just a side issue of a meal. Its digestibility has a coefficient of 98 per cent.

It must have been that same young man who discovered cheese. This time he put his milk into a half dried sheep's stomach for carrying purposes. When he opened it, he found that milk had changed to a flocculent mass of curds. The rennet in the sheep's stomach had curdled the milk or, in fact, made cheese.

Another milk product, ice cream, is about as old as the United States. In 1774 the chef of the Duc de Chartres prepared a mold of ice cream with the dual coat of arms imprinted on it as a surprise for his master. In 1777 the New York Gazette and Weekly Mercury printed an advertisement which said that "Ice cream may be had almost any day."

Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, wife of the first secretary of the treasury, introduced ice cream to Washington dinner tables.

The British say that ice cream is indigestible and hurts the stomach. This is a vile canard. It is one of the best invalid foods available. As part of a diet for ulcer of the stomach it is unsurpassed.

The fact is the British like only two things cold—tea and bath water.

Questions from Readers

B. B.: "When I was 14 I started to use lipstick. I am 17 now and notice little white dots on the upper parts of my lips. They are about the size of a pinhead and they are painless. Are they caused by using lipstick? I use lipstick very often. Will it be all right to continue to use it?"

Answer: The white dots on the lips are probably due to a condition called Steiverson's Disease. It is not dangerous, and is common. From the standpoint of health there is no objection that I know of to using lipstick and this department ventures no opinion as to whether it is beautiful or ethical.

Editor's Note: Four pamphlets and four articles by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each pamphlet and two cents in coin for each article, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes" and "Feminine Hygiene." The articles are "Normal Diet," "Diet of the Expectant Mother," "Tuberculosis" and "The Atonic Abdominal Wall."

My New York

By James Aswell

NEW YORK.—Now that the operators of side-street drinkeries of the more elaborate type have the "federal fear" in their hearts and cringe at the sight of an axe or a crowbar, as the result of recent raids, I am told of a charming little custom in one restaurant bar.

Here the doorman asks every card-bearing applicant for admission the date of his birth. These dates have been ascertained for every registered customer and records kept. If the would-be visitor's name is not on the list, he is asked to wait. If he is using a borrowed card—he is faced with an Embarrassing Moment.

But the most original angle to the practice is this: The speakeasy sends out greeting cards to all in the file who have birthdays impending—keeping good will and perhaps luring a planned celebration toward the portals.

And one more item before giving the whole subject a rest: beer-runners, annoyed with the loss of expensive trucks, are turning to dilapidated horse-and-wagon conveyances. When the government makes a seizure it merely gets another voracious mouth to feed.

DIGNITY

A Wall Street czar frequently in the public prints is famed for his truly magnificent suavity on all occasions, his unflinching grace of speech.

This man however is afflicted with the same weakness which plagues many of us: it takes him about an hour and a cold shower to wake up thoroughly in the morning. He awakens in a brown, misty haze.

The other morning President Whitney of the Stock Exchange called him about some routine matter. The polished operator grabbed the phone from a deep slumber.

"Whitney?" he repeated, thickly, fighting for his senses. "Sure I've heard of you. Something to do with the invention of the cotton gin. Call me at my office later. We'll talk about your patents."

Whereupon, he fell back into sleep.

Nancy Carroll is no longer red-headed, having turned resplendently blond. . . . But to skip back a sentence or two, I can't get out of my head a silly idea for a beauty contest to end beauty contest—the choice of a "Mr. Frankenstein."

Until tomorrow, after that. . . .

PICK-UPS AND PUT-DOWNS

The loudest floor-show, undoubtedly, in the world today is to be seen in the Paramount grill, where the air is rent by shots, martial music and the brassiest brass band in town. . . . Even if you can't see, in the far tiers of that vast room, you can always hear. . . .

Today I amused myself for an hour trying to figure out how that night club can pay B. Lillie $3,000 weekly for her services, on top of the other considerable overhead, and show a profit. . . . But it must, or else, how come?

Once more, with the advent of spring, the Gypsies have opened elaborate parlors, hung with gaudy banners, in the side-streets. . . . And once more, I am assured by experts, the campaign of the stylists to convert New York women to white dresses appears to be meeting with small success. . . . Is it the soot in the air, or is it the convincing chic of Gloria Vanderbilt, a devotee of black and recently returned to Manhattan?

Ina Claire, it should be remarked, arrived not long ago on the Bremen from Paris in such unrelieved black that the ship news boys scratched their heads and conferred together over the possibility of the actress being in mourning. . . . One of them bolstered courage to ask, and she quickly dispersed the apprehension. . . . She goes for the crepe ensemble because "it makes women look so slender."

Enough of the fashion gabble or the boys will be razing me. . . . Boris Karloff has achieved stardom in talking pictures without speaking a single word. . . . Reiter in "Frankenstein" and will be a mute once more in "The Old Dark House," his first stellar vehicle. . . .

Nancy Carroll is no longer red-headed, having turned resplendently blond. . . . But to skip back a sentence or two, I can't get out of my head a silly idea for a beauty contest to end beauty contest—the choice of a "Mr. Frankenstein."

Until tomorrow, after that. . . .

PERSONAL ADVICE

By Virginia Lee

"Dear Virginia Lee: Not so long ago a boy wrote to you about proposing to a girl and she took it as a joke. Well, not so long ago a boy proposed to me and I took it as a joke. I'm wondering if that could be him. I thought there was someone else, but it's different now. There isn't. I'm so sorry now. He told me I could regret it some day. I'm regretting it all the time. He told me I could always come back again. I miss him so. "Where ever he is I wish he reads my letter. I only wish I'd meet him again. What do you think about it, Virginia Lee?"

"DIMPLES."

Do you know where he is, Dimple? It seems to me that the thing to do is to write him and tell him how you feel. Refer to his remark about "always coming back" and say that you would like to.

Why be unhappy and allow him to be the same when with a little courage you can both be made joyful? Surely you need not to "suffer in silence." If he has changed in such a short time his love never was worth having.

P. W.: If the boy still likes you he will come back, my dear, but if he is tired of the friendship there is no use in expecting him to return to you. Keep on trying to forget him and you will finally succeed.

Air Minded? Yes!

In the early days of this country the town that was situated on the banks of a river grew and prospered because of the facility it afforded for the movement of people and merchandise.

In this day the city without adequate facilities to provide for the growing traffic of the air is a "back number."

Not Paris, no sir! Paris has always been progressive and always will be. Paris is destined to be an air center of the first rank.

Please count us in on steps that Paris is taking. Onward with Paris! Welcome to our city, Col. Goebel!

DO YOU KNOW HOLLYWOOD STARS BY NICKNAMES?

Familiarity breeds nicknames on Hollywood's studio lots as it does nearly everywhere else. Now take a look above and see what some of your favorite stars are known by among friends. And if you don't recognize 'em, they're better known as (1) Janet Gaynor; (2) Sylvia Sydney; (3) Nena Quartaro; (4) Elissa Landi; (5) Charles Farrell; (6) Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.; (7) Marie Dressler; (8) Joel McCrea; (9) Eugene Pallette. How many did you miss, if any?

Kerrville May Be Scene of Gold Rush

Gold-bearing ore has been found in Kerr county, and the Hill Country may see a gold rush. Above is J. A. Jackson, right, showing a visitor a piece of gold-bearing ore which came from 270 feet down Jackson's well on his farm 12 miles from Kerrville. Analysis shows the ore to be worth $6 a ton, a very high assay on gold ore, and as the well is dug deeper, the ore is even richer. The gold-bearing formation covers a large area, having outcroppings above ground in several places.

ARGENTINE AUTO RACER ENTERS INDIANAPOLIS RACE

Guadino, who is 36, has been racing since he was 14. An accident during a speed test last spring prevented the South American from appearing in last year's race.

FRENCH RACER SEEKS WORLD MARK

Completed after two years' labor, this giant French racing car will be sent after Sir Malcolm Campbell's world speed record of 253 miles an hour on the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla., where Sir Malcolm set his mark. The car has three 800-horsepower motors. A 60-horsepower motor is used to start the giant engines spinning. Monsieur Stapp, left, the owner, plans to drive the car.

New York Cotton
NEW YORK, April 30. (P)—After showing firmness during the greater part of the day, cotton gave way late in the session under increased liquidation.

May at one time sold at 6.15, an advance of ten points, but reacted to 6.00, a net loss of 5 points, closing at that level, while the general market closed barely steady, at the low of the day with net declines of 4-5 points.

May liquidation was again in progress in preparation for first notice day on April and there was some active exchanging from May to the more distant positions.

definite trend. After advancing as much as 9-10 points during the morning on good cables and short covering, prices eased off 14-16 points from the highs in the late afternoon, owing to liquidation rains in the west and weakness in the stock market. The market closed steady at the lows for the day, prices showing a net decline of 4-6 points.

Liverpool is due Wednesday on New Orleans 2-3 penny points down.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 29. (P)—Stocks managed to do somewhat better Tuesday.

Dribbling liquidation in a number of leaders, a few unfavorable first quarter earnings statements and anticipation of others, together with a general absence of buying interest, kept the trend downward, but losses were considerably smaller than Monday.

For the second successive session rails held relatively steady, trying now and then for a rally, although meeting with little success.

Industrials were rather dispirited, although in only a few instances did much weakness develop. Allied Chemical's 4 point break was the worst single performance. U. S. Steel, dipping under 30, seemed to be making further efforts to discount a dividend omission next week.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, April 29. (P)—Frightened by persistent grabbing up of wheat offerings during price setbacks, traders on the selling side switched position late Tuesday, and the market rebounded quickly.

Stimulating late upturns of wheat values was an authoritative unofficial estimate that the 1932 United States winter wheat crop had been reduced to only 440,000,000 bushels, against 787,000,000 in 1931. It was also reported that Texas mills had paid 3-4 cents over Chicago May price for No. 1 hard winter wheat as compared with 1 cent over May about three weeks ago.

Wheat closed firm, at practically the day's top, 1-5 1-2 above Monday's finish, corn unchanged to 1-4 off, oats 1-8 1-4 up, and provisions 5-25 cents down.

Closing indemnities: Wheat — May 57 1-2, 59 7-8 60; July 60 1-8, 62 1-2 5-8; Sept. 62 1-4 3-8, 64 5-8 3-4. Corn—May 52 7-8, 53 1-2; July 55 7-8 36, 56 5-8 1-4; Sept. 58 1-4, 59 1-8.

FROM Xanthi and Cavala . . . Smyrna and Samsoun . . . the finest Turkish tobaccos travel 4,000 miles to add flavor and fragrance to CHESTERFIELD.

for better taste

CIGARETTE smokers owe a lot to Turkish tobacco, for it was cigarettes made out of Turkish tobacco that first became the vogue in this country.

Then it was found that a blend of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos was better than either kind of tobacco straight. It takes just the right amount of the right kind of Turkish tobacco to give a cigarette better taste. For Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food—the spice—the sauce. You want enough but not too much.

There is just enough Turkish in CHESTERFIELDS to give them a better flavor, a more pleasing aroma; to make them taste better.

Turkish tobacco must pay an import duty of 35c a pound; but cost doesn't count when it comes to making CHESTERFIELD the best cigarette that science and money can produce.
